Catherine Lee and J. Michael Short - Lee Michael's Sculpture Cakes - "Keep Deep"

- Presenting – The Historical Dynamics of the Underground Railroad© and The History of Cakes.
- What did our African ancestors eat when escaping through the swamps on the Underground Railroad?
- Frederick Douglass tells us of the enslaved Africans eating a cake. It was cooked at meal-time in the fields without Oven or utensils on the plantation enslavement. Now cooked by Freedom Seekers. <https://www.laphamquarterly.org/food/blood-bought-luxuries>
- The Africans had inside of them embedded values: Hope, purpose, critical thinking, bravery, humanity: courageous Abolitionist helping.
